“ My dude, the memory I've been holdin on to is THE reason I didn't come up to the hospital. We saw each other most days but the day prior, when you were getting out of the car and had said something, that out of context, gave you that s^&/ eating grin and we laughed as we parted ways. I will forever remember that moment and smile...

Crystal and I were laughing about you being 5 and watching your late night dance and music show to see your favorite MJ.....

Had nothing but love for you, and you can quit stressing on everything. We know homie, always had your back at your side!

*Always your friend,
Chris Alred*
