There were a bunch of us when we were younger that would always either end up at the same place or hang out together. I spent alot of time around his mother as well. I remember a trip we took to go visit Danny. OH BOY! hahaha We overslept because her and I may or may not have had a little to drink the night before ;) As we are driving a huge bird hits the windshield of my car. She hollers and then hollers at me because my reaction was to cover my eyes, while still cruising along.

There are so many more memories I could share but the most important this I want to say is to the family. I am so incredibly sorry for your loss! Praying that all of you find peace and comfort in the Lord.
