“ Don Hoobler and his brother David are my first cousins. They grew up in Rossville and I in Maple Hill, Ks. I remember spending a lot of time at there house. Doing all the things that boys do. I specifically remember their parents Dwight and Marge taking us to see movies in Topeka on Saturday afternoons. One in particular that I remember was Godzilla vs King Kong.
If you can tell me anything about where Don is buried or anything about the where about of David I would appreciate that very much.
We were among 45 first cousins, grand children of Vern (V.P) Hoobler and his wife Myrtle Rake Hoobler.
May Don rest in peace.

Sid Hoobler
I don't know if you remember me or not but I was married to David for a while and Don would be buried in Missouri somewhere I'm still currently looking for that grave site and it would be near Liberal Missouri or in that area and so sorry I was married to David and he took off with his floozy to Seattle Washington no one has known his whereabouts since
I read in a newspaper near Seattle that he had been hit by a truck being drunk was in the hospital but from what I can tell he lived through that part but no one seen him since he left Kansas in the early 2000s
