“ My grandmother was deserving of so much more than a few lines of an obituary. She was a daughter, sister, mother, grandmother, and great grandmother. She spent her career as a nurse caring for the sick and for elderly patients while raising three boys. She was the first woman in my life that showed me love. She was the first person I could call when my life was falling apart and she knew exactly what to say to help me put it all back together. When she held my children I watched her heart swell with pride and love. The lessons that she passed on to me, I pass on to my children. Just knowing her made me a better person. When I think about my grandma, I will remember the hugs she gave, the stories she told, the love that she shared, and the memories we created together!
